This home is a relaxing contemporary beach retreat with a Balinese influence. A neutral pallet and unobstructed views of the ocean vistas are maximized with full height sliding glass doors that pocket out of sight. An open floating staircase allows visibility from the kitchen island to every area on the ground floor. The tranquil palette of spa-like finishes makes use of juxtaposing natural textured materials within a clean contemporary framework. Durable yet plush textiles were used throughout, which blurs the lines between indoor and outdoor living.
